THE loose charges preferred against th dministration by the Democratic address ust issued, are best answered by the offiial figures from the Treasury Department ast published, which show, in the collecion of revenue alone, a saving of $400,000 for the quarter just ended, over the corresponding quarter for 1870.

OUR PRESIDENT. Nothing goes further to show the deep hold our President has on the popular heart, than the demonstrations which greet him wherever he goes. He has recently made a short visit to St. Louis, on private business. Wherever he has gone, the people have received him enthusisastically. At Indianapolis, he stopped one day, and at night was called upon by thousands, unxious to look into the face of their Chief Magistrate. He was introduced to the vast assemblage by Hovernor Baker when he made a few remarks and with the modesty for which he is characteristic, refired, merely thanking them for such a flattering token of their esteem. Senator Morton followed him and made a powerful and telling speech, in which he gave some of the prominent features of Grant's administration, for which he is entitled to the thanks of the people. He alluded to the flimsy address recently issued by the Democratic Congressmen, and predicted that the next election, Indiana would give on overwhelming Republican majority.

Addresses were made by other gentlemen and at 10:30 at night he was escorted to the denot by a large concourse of citizens, and left for his destination. The efforts made in certain quarters to prejudice the minds of the Western people against him have proven a failure, as future developements will fully show.

HOW TO INCREASE OUR WEALTH AND POPU-LATION.

While the Western States have organized bureaus and placed at their disposal large sums of money and at their head men of great energy and business capacity, for the purpose of securing the great mass of immigrants that weekly land on our shores, Tennessee has left the field to be occupied entirely by private enterprise. There are but few men of judgment to be found, who do not admit the benefits certain to flow from increased population; but few to deny that immigration has built up the Northwest as by magic, and yet the only organization since the war set on foot to aid in securing it, was hastily abolished last year and the whole movement aband-oned. What is being done now is through the enterprise of private parties. Several real estate agencies in East Tennessee, and several organizations of citizens in different counties have spent considerable money in circulating abroad facts about our country and advertising the merits of the real estate offered for sale. These men are doing at their own expense what is of Sewing Machine, Plow benefit to every citizen, and what, to say the very least, ought to be heartily seconded by the State or by counties and cities. They do it, of cours, to further their own business, but their business is one which directly profits others as much as them-

An incident came to our notice yesterday that shows the good being done, and that suggests how much more might be done by proper effort. A party of gentlemen just returning from Australia, by way of San Francisco and the Pacific Railroad, saw, while traveling in the cars, in the New York Tribune, our advertisement of the Weekly Chronicle and our East Tennessee articles. As soon as they reached home, they sent for our Weekly, became interested in our Facts, and reading in it the advertisement of our real estate agents, sent to Munson & Bailey for one of their Real Estate Registers. In it they saw the description of some farms they thought would suit them; so they came to Knoxville to prespect for a home. They were pleased with one of the finest farms in the county, and left yesterday for home, to make their arrangements to geturn and locate in our midst. They are men of capital and energy, so represented to us, and we hope they may certainly come and bring others with them, as they expect to

We only refer to this as one of many instances where good men-men of means and enterprise are brought here through such agencies. The value of advertising and the good work being done by our real estate agents and by our East Tennessee acticles are in this way realized almost in every day's experience.

We have just printed at our job office, for a county society at New Market, several thousand pamphlets giving information about Jefferson county, its lands, situation, shipping facilities, &c. These are to be gratuitously distributed throughout the North, and cannot fail to do good not only to Jefferson county, but to all East Tennessee. This is done at the expense of a few public-spirited citizens of that county, whose names we gave some days ago. We need more such liberal, wide-awake men. This city ought to pay for the circulation

d printing of ten thousand such pamphlets. That it would pay us and do good to our section is capable of mathematical monstration. We have the lands, the with us. Can we not do it? Do we not can we not secure them by a little effort? Are we to stand idly by and see the Northwest absorb this vast tide of living men, much permanent additional capital to our State? We have long wanted to see this metropolis city of East Tennessee take hold of this matter and move in it. Can we not do it now?

CENTRALIZATION.

The opponents of the Republican party seek to make a point on the question, of what they are pleased to term, a "centrali zation of power" in the Federal Government. We can very easily understand why States Rights Democrats should make such an allegation. The principles of the Republican party are certainly opposed to the doctrine that the States are sovereign independent of the Federal Government. The doctrine of State Sovereignty was exploded by the Republican party after four years of hard fighting, and States rights men are not pleased with the result. But the hard experience of that four years suggests that the question should be put to rest forever, and the tendency of the Republican legislation has been to that effect. If the people of the South, or of any other section, believe that the authority of the Federal Government should be made second to that of the States, it is well if they can be convinced of their error by legislation, rather than by another disastrous and bloody attempt to settle the question in a different way. If we, by chance, should have another rebellion, no time should be wasted in debating the constitutional power of the Government to "coerce" a State, We have had enough of delay on a former occasion, from that cause. We would not rob the States of a single legal or just right. We have no idea of ever submitting to an obliteration of State lines. The States should be allowed to regulate their own domestic affairs in their own way provided that all their citizens are protected, and provided that the rights of citizens in other States are in no way abridged. But while we favor all this, we are decidedly in favor of clothing the Federal Government with full power to protect itself, by enforcing the law, and protecting its citizens when the States fail to protect them. If this is centralization, then the Republican party certainly favors it. If by "centralization" it is meant that Republicans seek to make the laws of the Federal Government the supreme power of the land, then we say, by all means let us have centralization. A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker furnishes the following as his mode: When the animal is choked, take a loaded gun, slip up by the side of the animal, place the muzzle directly between the horns, about three inches forward of them and discharge the piece. A sudden spring of the animal backward results, and the obstruction is removed.

It was suggested in one of the magazines, some time ago, that it would be a delight, ful thing to have Tennyson come over here and read his own poetry. Tennyson's voice is exceedingly gruff, and his theory of reading poetry is to deliver it with very great slowness and emphasis, syllable by syllable. officernal
